

Frequently Asked Questions

What is the reason for this merger?

By joining our two companies we will create an even stronger foundation to support the future growth of our business. We also gain deeper expertise and increased versatility. All of these benefits ultimately enable us to deliver greater capabilities and more choices to our clients.

Will any of the products or services offered by First American Real Estate Solutions or CoreLogic be discontinued as a result of this merger?

Our goal is to offer more choices to our clients by expanding the breadth of our products and services. All products offered by CoreLogic and RES will remain available to customers.

Will there be a workforce reduction as a result of this merger?

Both companies are fast growing and operate in complementary markets and, looking ahead, we see excellent prospects for ongoing business expansion. This reduces the likelihood that we will need to materially reduce our workforce.

Will each company remain at its current location?

Yes. CoreLogic's staff and operations will remain in Sacramento, Calif. The First American Real Estate Solutions office in Sacramento, Calif., will also remain the same.

What will be the name of the new combined company?

Near term, both brands will coexist in the market. Longer term, we are evaluating a future transition to a unified brand.
